

ACCREDITED COACH TRAINING

A strong, leadership-focused coaching model, designed specifically for leaders, executives, managers and existing coaches

Fully accredited by the International Coaching Federation (ICF), our approach is highly experiential and based on small class sizes, with personal tutor support, observed coaching and coach-mentoring included.

The Forton Leadership Coaching Model was the first leadership-specific coaching tool to be accredited by the ICF. It is designed for leaders and managers to develop their own coaching skills within their organization, and for professional coaches who coach leaders, executives, managers and business people.

We offer in-person and live-virtual options, blended with online learning. Participants get 1-to-1 support and benefit from extensive multi-media support materials, including coaching guides, videos and other materials.

The Professional Leadership Coach programme is made up of six core options, which all include the following key elements for leadership coaching:

- Behaviours and styles
- High performance, goals, and results
- Whole systems thinking
- Emotional intelligence
- Individual, organizational and team contexts
- Change and transformation
- Personal, professional and stakeholder relations
- Inspiration, influence, and motivation

We work with programme participants to ensure they are placed in the most appropriate classes based on their prior experience and learning.
